Introduction

The Catholic Certificate in Religious Studies (CCRS) is managed and awarded by the Board of Religious Studies on behalf of the Bishops' Conference of England and Wales. It was introduced in 1991 to replace its predecessors, The Catholic Teachers' Certificate and the Certificate in Religious Education. Any person who is or wishes to be involved in Catholic education and formation may apply for this course. This includes those involved in Religious Education in schools, Parish Catechesis and other ministries in the Church and anyone who wishes to follow the course for faith development or personal interest. The course seeks to ensure that participants have at least a basic knowledge and understanding of the beliefs of the Catholic Faith. It also provides a basis for further study.

Course Aims

Study for the Catholic Certificate in Religious Studies aims to:

- provide teachers, those involved in parish ministry and other ministry contexts with knowledge and understanding of the teaching and beliefs of the Catholic Faith
- develop an appreciation of the principles of Catholic education at all levels
- employ and encourage sound adult educational processes which express central values of Catholic life
- enhance understanding of education within the Church as a life-long process
- enable all participants to make an informed contribution to their chosen field of ministry within the Church.

Course Structure

The certificate is normally awarded after two years' study, with a maximum of five years' to complete from the start of the first module (only exceptional pastoral reasons are acceptable for studying beyond five years'). Without a good reason for exemption the modules will cease to be valid. The five year period starts from when you first start your studies with the centre and not from when you are registered with the National CCRS Database. If you dispute the maximum five years' study with the centre they will need to have any extension of study agreed with the CCRS Regional group first.

There are eight modules:

- six core modules
- two specialist modules.

The core modules explore the Scriptures, the Person of Jesus Christ, the Church and its sacramental life and moral understanding.

The specialist modules relate to each participant's ministry in the Church, covering such areas as Religious Education in schools, Parish Catechesis, Liturgy, Justice and Peace and Chaplaincy.

Each module requires:

- ten hours' contact time
- an assignment of 1500 words or equivalent.

Module Structure

Each of the six core modules of the Certificate is described according to the following pattern:

Aim
Course Content
Learning and Teaching Process
Learning Outcomes
Assessment

They are designed to build together into a basic understanding of Catholic theology. Its application within a school, parish or ministry setting is explored further through the specialist modules.

The Catechism of the Catholic Church begins with the human search for meaning, the Divine Revelation of God who comes to meet us, and the response of faith (ccc 26). This is the process that is adapted in all the modules explored with the participants.

Search
Revelation
Response

The six core modules are:

The Bible: Old Testament (Hebrew Scriptures)
The Bible: New Testament
Jesus Christ
The Church
Sacraments
Christian Morality

The Bible: Old Testament (Hebrew Scriptures)

Aim

The purpose of this module is to introduce participants to the writings in the Old Testament in order to help them to recognise God's revelation contained there and its continuing relevance in Christian life today.

Course Content

- How the Church looks at the Old Testament today, particularly in the light of Vatican II and the Catechism of the Catholic Church
- Introduction to the formation of the Hebrew Scriptures in terms of the historical, geographical, cultural, political and religious background
- Study of types of literature contained in Scripture (e.g. myth, epic, history, prophetic writings, liturgy)
- Study of selected texts which focus on the Covenant, the centrality of the Exodus experience and the formative effect of the Exile.

Learning and Teaching Process

This will include:

- reflection on personal experience
- related input to deepen understanding
- the gathering of information through reading and listening
- group discussion.

Learning Outcomes

Participants should:

- be familiar with the books and types of literature which make up the Old Testament and be able to set them in their context
- be able to make connections between a particular type of literature and the belief the words express
- recognise the diversity of images of God in the Old Testament
- appreciate the significance of the covenant relationship for the people of Israel
- understand the relevance of the Old Testament and its use in the Catholic community today
- be able to communicate what they have learned and reflected upon from an adult stance.

Assessment

Participants will be credited with this module upon satisfying both of the following conditions:

- Attendance for at least ten hours' contact time
- Successful completion of an Assignment based on some aspect of the content of this module and related to one or more of the identified learning outcomes. (This can include a written assignment or presentation or portfolio.)

The Bible: New Testament

Aim

The purpose of this module is to familiarise participants with the process through which the New Testament writings came into being and to help them interpret the material presented and understand its significance for the life of a Christian today.

Course Content

- Introduction to the historical, geographical, cultural, political and religious background to the New Testament
- The centrality of the Paschal Mystery
- The formation of the New Testament
- Study of the different types of literature contained in the New Testament (e.g. gospel, letter, parable, miracle story)
- The use of the New Testament in the Church today.

Learning and Teaching Process

This will include:

- reflection on personal experience
- related input to deepen understanding
- the gathering of information through reading and listening
- group discussion.

Learning Outcomes

Participants should:

- be familiar with the books and types of literature which make up the New Testament
- appreciate the centrality of the Resurrection experience in Christian belief
- recognise the New Testament writings as the basis for subsequent developments in Christian theology and worship
- understand the use of the New Testament in the Catholic community today
- be able to communicate what they have learned and reflected upon from an adult stance.

Assessment

Participants will be credited with this module upon satisfying both of the following conditions:

- Attendance for at least ten hours' contact time
- Successful completion of an Assignment based on some aspect of the content of this module and related to one or more of the identified learning outcomes. (This can include a written assignment or presentation or portfolio.)

Jesus Christ

Aim

The purpose of this module is to deepen participants' awareness of the significance and centrality of the person and work of Jesus Christ in the daily life of the Christian as well as in the worship of the Church.

Course Content

- The participants' own images of Jesus Christ and how such images are shaped by the arts (music/art/architecture), personal history and worship
- Images of Christ drawn from the Bible
- Credal statements and their relevance today, with particular reference to the Council of Chalcedon and the Nicene Creed, and the historical and social context in which they developed
- Jesus as the second person of the Trinity
- Reflection on the concept of the Kingdom of God as it is expressed in the Bible and understood today.

Learning and Teaching Process

This will include:

- reflection on personal experience
- related input to deepen understanding
- the gathering of information through reading and listening
- group discussion.

Learning Outcomes

Participants should:

- recognise the diversity of images of the Person of Jesus
- relate these images to the social and cultural context in which they were and are shaped and expressed
- appreciate the mission of Jesus to proclaim the Kingdom of God
- recognise the centrality of the Person of Jesus, both fully human and divine and as the second person of the Trinity
- be able to communicate what they have learned and reflected upon from an adult stance.

Assessment

Participants will be credited with this module upon satisfying both of the following conditions:

- Attendance for at least ten hours' contact time
- Successful completion of an Assignment based on some aspect of the content of this module and related to one or more of the identified learning outcomes. (This can include a written assignment or presentation or portfolio.)

The Church

Aim

The purpose of this module is to enable participants to reflect on the nature of the Church and its mission in the world today.

Course Content

- The meaning and significance of the term Church, as used in the earliest days and developed in later practice
- The significance and practical implications of the ecclesiology of Vatican II and the communio model and the role of Mary as the first disciple
- The mission of the Church in the world today
- The relationship between the Catholic Church and other denominations
- The relationship of the Catholic Church to other religions.

Learning and Teaching Process

This will include:

- reflection on personal experience
- related input to deepen understanding
- the gathering of information through reading and listening
- group discussion.

Learning Outcomes

Participants should:

- be familiar with the Vatican II teaching on the Church
- be aware of the variety of roles in the Church of today
- recognise the relationship of the Church to the world as one of service
- appreciate the relationship between the Catholic Church and other faiths
- be able to communicate what they have learned and reflected upon from an adult stance.

Assessment

Participants will be credited with this module upon satisfying both of the following conditions:

- Attendance for at least ten hours' contact time
- Successful completion of an Assignment based on some aspect of the content of this module and related to one or more of the identified learning outcomes. (This can include a written assignment or presentation or portfolio.)

Sacraments

Aim

The purpose of this module is to develop participants' understanding and appreciation of Sacrament in the life of Catholics as a sign of Christ's continuing presence with the Church.

Course Content

- Study of the use of signs and symbols in daily life
- The Church as the sacrament of Christ's presence
- An overview of the seven sacraments; the Sacraments of Christian Initiation, Healing and Service of Communion and the Mission of the Faithful
- Sacraments in the universal call to holiness and vocation.

Learning and Teaching Process

This will include:

- reflection on personal experience
- related input to deepen understanding
- the gathering of information through reading and listening
- group discussion.

Learning Outcomes

Participants should:

- recognise the symbolic use of word and action in daily life
- appreciate the sacraments as celebrations of the covenant relationship between Christ and the Church.
- understand the relevance and purpose of the seven sacraments in the universal call to holiness and to vocation.
- appreciate Baptism, Confirmation and Eucharist as sacraments of Christian initiation.
- be able to communicate what they have learned and reflected upon from an adult stance.

Assessment

Participants will be credited with this module upon satisfying both of the following conditions:

- Attendance for at least ten hours' contact time
- Successful completion of an Assignment based on some aspect of the content of this module and related to one or more of the identified learning outcomes. (This can include a written assignment, or presentation or portfolio.)

Christian Morality

Aim

The purpose of this module is to help participants develop the skills of moral decision-making, to examine Christian teaching in its relation to the universal search for what constitutes “human good”, and to explore the application of Christian understanding to some contemporary moral issues.

Course Content

- Moral decision-making as a universal human activity
- Basic principles of Christian morality
- The role of the Catholic Church as moral teacher and guide
- Formation of Christian conscience
- Contemporary moral issues: e.g. environmental, medical, sexual, social
- Catholic social teaching.

Learning and Teaching Process

This will include:

- reflection on personal experience
- related input to deepen understanding
- the gathering of information through reading and listening
- group discussion.

Learning Outcomes

Participants should:

- have a knowledge of the foundations of Christian morality and an understanding of the role of the Church as moral teacher
- recognise the importance of individual conscience and understand what is involved in the formation of Christian conscience
- be able to appreciate and respect different, yet conscientiously held, positions in regard to moral questions
- be able to communicate what they have learned and reflected upon from an adult stance.

Assessment

Participants will be credited with this module upon satisfying both of the following conditions:

- Attendance for at least ten hours’ contact time
- Successful completion of an Assignment based on some aspect of the content of this module and related to one or more of the identified learning outcomes. (This can include a written assignment or presentation or portfolio.)

Specialist Modules

This is a list of the titles of Specialist Modules available at the time of going to print. The number and content of Specialist Modules may be revised by a Centre from time to time. For further information about particular Modules and current availability, please contact the Centre concerned. Whichever Specialist Modules are followed, they will be recorded on the Registrar's database as S1 and S2.

Assignments

Requirement

- An assignment of 1500 words or equivalent is required for each module.
- The assignment must normally be completed and returned to the tutor within six weeks of the final session of the module.

Guidelines for Writing Assignments for the Core Modules

Presentation

- If the assignment has not been typed, handwriting should be clear and legible.
- The number of words must be noted at the end of the assignment (e.g. 1500).
- A bibliography must be included.

Organisation

- The title and module number should be written at the beginning of the assignment.
- The assignment should be logically structured and the introduction and conclusion should be clear and relevant.
- Each paragraph should relate to the title or question.

Language

- The language in which the assignment is written must reflect the appropriate literary genre for the subject being addressed.
- Participants are encouraged to use inclusive language.
- They should seek to avoid such phrases as 'we should', 'we must', 'we ought', when discussing religious or moral practice.

Assessment

The assignment should demonstrate:

- adequate reading
- fulfilment of the learning outcomes as listed in the appropriate module descriptor
- ability to assimilate, reflect on and criticise the material studied
- skills necessary to communicate the substance of the study from an adult Christian stance
- adherence to the guidelines given above.

Marking

- Markers should provide the participants with detailed feedback relating to the quality of the work submitted.
- Where dioceses or colleges run the CCRS in parallel with other courses (e.g. Diploma or B.A.) the CCRS must retain its own distinct, identifiable criteria for assessment so that there is never any question of a student's failure in a host course making consequent failure in the CCRS unavoidable.
(Assignment Assessment Sheet in Appendices)

Regional Meetings

Every Centre is part of a regionally based meeting process. Details of the process can be obtained from the Secretary to the Board of Religious Studies.

Approval of Prior Learning (APL)

Participants who have previously completed a degree in Theology or Religious Studies may be eligible for exemption from some of the core modules. Centres may recommend to the Board of Religious Studies through the Administrator what modules will be equivalent to a participant's prior learning. The Board will seek the advice of the Centre Director in these matters, but the final decision to approve prior learning rests with the Board. This process relates to prior learning up to a maximum of three core modules (not Specialist Modules). It does not apply to 'concurrent' or 'prospective' learning.

Registration

- There is a national database of all participants who are registered through their accredited Centre.
- Each registered participant is assigned a national registration number.
- There is a national registration fee (£20).
- Participants should be registered within one year of beginning the course.
- The database complies with the requirements of the Data Protection Act and is managed through the Catholic Education Service.

Transfer to another Centre

Any participants who move to another accredited Centre to continue or complete the course must provide the new Centre with their registration number as well as written evidence from the previous Centre of modules already successfully completed.

Certification

When a module has been successfully completed the Centre may issue a certificate for that module. On successful completion of the whole course the Centre will submit names to the Registrar who will then issue the Catholic Certificate in Religious Studies. These certificates will be signed by the Chair and Secretary of the Board of Religious Studies and countersigned at local level by the bishop or the appropriate representative.

Centres allowing participants to follow the course on an 'audit only' basis (i.e. without requiring written assignments) may issue participants with a statement of attendance designed locally.

Accreditation of Centres

Catholic Colleges of Higher Education and Diocesan Religious Education Centres are accredited Centres.

If any other institution wishes to deliver the CCRS, it must first seek the approval of the local bishop through his Diocesan Religious Education Director, before seeking accreditation from the Board of Religious Studies. When such an institution seeks accreditation, application is made to the Board of Religious Studies through the Secretary.

The following will be required:

- the written permission and approval of the Diocese in which the proposed Centre is situated
- the proposed Centre's agreement to join the local region for moderation
- written details of the proposed modules
- written details of those who are delivering the modules, including details of relevant qualifications and experience.

Distance Learning

It is recognised that some participants may not be able to attend modules offered in accredited Centres. Details of how to follow the CCRS through distance learning can be obtained from:

POSSIBLE ASSESSMENT MODES

ASSIGNMENTS

A discursive written response to a question or statement which involves the participant in finding and presenting information and opinion in a structured way, which normally includes an introduction, the information/opinion/evaluation/analysis and a conclusion.

The learning may be assessed by,

- Marker against clear CCRS criteria.

Evidence could include

- Assignment
- Markers feedback

PRESENTATION

A specific task involving private study and research for an individual (or groups) involves the selection of a topic, planning, finding information and presenting results orally (or in writing)

The learning may be assessed by:

- Module leader, participant or peers at the end of the process through observation and discussion.

Evidence could include:

- Notes and record of presentation process
- Module leader record
- Peer records
- Participant diary
- Audio/video/photographic record

PORTFOLIO (Reflective log/diary/journal)

A description in writing by the participant reflecting on how and what they have learned. Often completed at regular intervals during the learning process this allows discussion on individual progress.

The learning may be assessed by:

- Participant and support from module leader

Evidence could include:

- Log/diary/journal
- Module leader record

ORAL QUESTION/ANSWER

Specific, open or closed questions for the participants' immediate answer. It allows response from participants and feedback from module leader.

The learning may be assessed by:

- Responses by module leader and individual responses

Evidence could include:

- Module leader notes
- Participant notes/log
- Audio/video record

CASE STUDY

Consideration of a particular, relevant situation or example selected by the module leader or participants which enables them to apply knowledge and understanding to specific ministries. This may be used by an individual participant or group as a written activity through case study materials and participant responses.

The learning may be assessed by:

- Module leader observation
- Individual participant discussion
- Group discussion

Evidence could include:

- Log/diary/journal
- Module leader record
- Discussion notes

REPORT

A record of an activity and /or a summary of research which presents information in a structured way. It includes analysis and/or evaluation. This may be presented in written or oral form.

The learning may be assessed by:

Guidelines for E-Learning

What is E-Learning?

E-learning relates to teaching and learning carried out via electronic media, particularly the Internet. It is used in online and blended learning as well as face-to-face classroom practice. It includes a broad range of information and communication (ICT) technologies used to deliver and support education. A helpful introduction is provided at <http://www.jiscdigitalmedia.ac.uk/guide/introduction-to-elearning>.

The following checklist suggests good practice for e-learning and CCRS.
